MADI LOU IS MARCHING INTO HER FUTURE

BY SIERRA LYLE

Madison Lou Sieren was welcomed into the world on March 31, 1997. She was greeted by her proud parents, Allan Sieren and Brenda Walker, and an older brother, Tyler. She has many memories involving her family, but some of her favorites include playing basketball in the yard with her brother and her neighbors. She also always enjoyed going on trips to Kansas City to visit her Aunt Colleen, because she has an underground pool.

As a child, Madison always pictured herself as a doctor, but her plans have changed as she grew older. At the moment, she is weighing the options between attending basic training and joining the army or going to Kirkwood to continue her education. Whatever Madison chooses, she has a lot of qualities to get her far in life. Skills received from speech, basketball, XC, track, Model UN, and golf will help get her there.

Madison's goals in life are to one day build her own house, enjoy life to the fullest, and start a family. She hopes that in ten years, she will have a husband and children, a good job, and the ability to support her family. She admires her grandparents, LaVerne and Mille, more than she admires anyone else because they have always worked hard, and have raised amazing children and grandchildren.

While Madison is serious about school, she likes to have fun, too. She enjoys hunting, being with family and friends, and basketball. Basketball has always been Madison's favorite activity because it is fun and she has always loved it.

There have been many memories for Madison while she has attended Keota. Her favorite high school memory was messing up the one act in speech her junior year at districts. "It was a total disaster. Everyone was forgetting their lines, and people were making lines up on the spot!" responded Madison.

Madison will miss her small classes and all the help the teachers give her when she leaves KHS. Her favorite teacher was Mr. Snakenberg because she understood everything, and the most worthwhile classes she has taken were English classes, because she was taught valuable life skills.

When asked to describe herself, Madison replied in short, "Stubborn and impatient." She hopes people remember her as someone who says what she thinks and upholds her opinions. To future seniors,

Madison advises,

"Never give up in high school, and care about what you do, because it does

matter and it will help

you out in the long run."
